CAPITAL IS TURNED TO VALLEY

Fussell And Lide Forming $100,000 Corporation

FUSSELL RESIGNS BANK CONNECTION IN ENTERING FIRM

'One-Four-O Tire Co.' To Be the Name of New Concern

BRANCH STORES FORM A CHAIN

No Stock Is Offered To Public In The New Company

W. W. Fussell and Frank P. Lide announced today a new corporation in process of formation, to be known as the "One-Four-O Tire Company," with its headquarters in Albany-Decatur. The company will start business with an authorized capital of $100,000 and with such amount paid in as will be necessary to take over the Albany-Decatur and Anniston operations of Mr. Lide. Additional capital, it is stated, will be paid in as the company expands by establishing branch stores in Huntsville, Florence, Columbia, Tenn., Corinth and Laurel, Miss. Other important cities in Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee and Mississippi are on the list for later consideration. It will be the purpose of the company to establish six to ten stores during the first half of the new year.

The combination of W. W. Fussell and Frank P. Lide brings together two of the leading and best known business men of this section in a business association which bears promise of becoming one of the largest of its kind in the southern states. It has been known to close friends for many months that plans were being made to establish a "chain" system of Tire Stores and Service Stations. Mr. Lide established his Anniston store early in this year to "test" the possibilities of such a system, and this store has already gained national fame by being used as a Model Tire Store and Service Station in a recent page advertisement of the Good-year Tire and Rubber company in the Saturday Evening Post.

Improvements at the local store, now in progress, more than doubling the floor "drive-in" space, will be completed by January 1st and brings the local store in the Model Class. Both men will devote their entire time to developing the new system, and will spend considerable time at Branch Stores until the business of a new branch gets well under way.

Mr. Fussell will resign his position as active vice-president of the Tennessee Valley Bank and Branches effective as early as he can be relieved of his duties as one of the chief executives of that institution, which will probably not be before February first. Since coming here ten years ago, Mr. Fussell has been identified with practically every movement for the upbuilding of Albany-Decatur. He served as the fifth president of the Kiwanis Club, during which the club showed splendid progress. It was during his administration as president, and due largely to his personal efforts, the home demonstration work was established in Morgan county. He was one of the prime factors in the organization of the local Golf and Country Club, serving as treasurer and member of the board of governors from its organization until recently, when it is understood he declined the nomination for further service. His efforts in the recent campaign to bring the Connecticut Mills here, and handling the intricate details incident to closing the transaction is fresh in the minds of local business interests. He was a member of the executive committee of three in the Tennessee river bridge campaign and gave of his time in working out the program through which this project was brought to a successful conclusion.

Mr. Lide has been identified with local business for a number of years, first as a hardware merchant on Bank street, and some nine years ago established in a

Lumpkin Gives Reason For Swearing Warrant

ILLINOIS CENTRAL MAY BRING LINES INTO THE VALLEY

Rumors Reach Here of Possible Extension of the Big Road

REPORTS LACK CONFIRMATION

Valley's Progress To Play Part In This Development

Possibility of revival of plans for rail extension in the Tennessee Valley district was seen today as rumors reached here that the Illinois Central railroad is considering the possibility of construction of a line through the heart of the Muscle Shoals district. No official designation whatever is attached to these rumors, but reports were current here today that representatives of the Illinois Central have been inspecting the section between here and Haleyville, possibly with the view of bringing one of their main lines through North Alabama.

For several years there have been reports, from time to time, of additional rail facilities for the Valley. Most of these plans were dependent, to some extent, on what disposition was made of the Muscle Shoals properties of the government. Now that the Valley has ceased to wait on the Shoals development, some observers profess to see a much earlier consummation of the plans for railroad extensions.

The Illinois Central is one of the major rail lines of the South and middle west and its extension into the Tennessee Valley would be welcomed as another great facility for transportation.

The party left here in a taxi cab. An official of the taxi company said they did not know its destination.

They said that Detective Carson vouched for its safe return.

INVESTIGATION IS UNDERWAY AFTER THOMPSON AFFAIR

Lumpkin Says That He Heard 'Legger' Talk of Booze

NO LIQUOR WAS CAUGHT IN RAID

Swore Warrant After He Heard Of A 'Load of Booze'

BIRMINGHAM, Dec. 9.—(AP)—

C. T. Lumpkin, a cobbler, swore out a search warrant for liquor in the home of Fredrick I. Thompson, Alabama publisher, because he heard a "bootlegger" say he had carried a load of booze to the Thompson home," according to Lumpkin's own statement today before Judge H. C. Abernathy in whose court the warrant was issued.

The inquiry by the court into the reasons for the warrant and the manner in which it was served was continued by the court until Saturday.

Lumpkin told the court he overheard a "bootlegger" talking to another man, in a pool room, Monday. The "bootlegger" was boasting of delivering liquor to the Thompson home, Lumpkin said. Thereupon Lumpkin, according to his statement to the court, swore out the warrant.

The warrant was served by W. J. Wood, night warden at the county jail, who deputized B. R. Campbell.

There was some questioning to the regularity of the serving of the warrant and this will be inquired into, it was stated. It had not been made clear, it was pointed out, why Wood served the warrant and from whom he received instructions to act. Under the usual procedure, warrants are handed to the sheriff's office by the court issuing them. The sheriff or his deputy assigns men to serve the papers. In this case, no statement has been made by the sheriff's office as to the procedure, although it was stated that Wood is the regular deputy and fully qualified under the law to execute such missions.

Lumpkin said he did not know the "bootlegger," he overheard in the pool room.

No liquor was found in the Thompson home, which is situated on Cliff Road, in an exclusive residential section.

Mr. Thompson said that the raid was a political effort to intimidate him. The raid caused Judge Abernathy to inquire into the source of the warrant and the manner of execution.

HARTSELLE TERM OF COURT IS SET

Judge Lowe Convenes Court There On January 3

The first term of court since the burning of the Morgan county court house here will be convened on January 3, in Hartselle, it was announced Thursday by Judge W. T. Lowe, of the county court.

The jury docket will be taken up at that time. "Of course, things have been somewhat unsettled since the fire," Judge Lowe stated, "but we hope to have everything ready for the term of court in Hartselle the first week of the new year."

The Hartselle term is one which was postponed at the time of the fire, when court records were damaged slightly by flames and water.

ROPER AND SPEAKE WILL BE PARTNERS AFTER JANUARY 1

Banker Resigns Place In City National To Be Retailer

BOTH MEMBERS ARE PROMINENT

Much Success Today Is Predicted For New Firm

W. E. Roper and H. R. Speake, prominent in business circles in these cities, today announced the formation of a partnership, under which Mr. Roper becomes a partner in the firm of H. R. Speake, effective January 1, 1927. The new exclusive men's establishment will likely be known under the firm name of "Speake & Roper," and will be located at the present Bank street establishment.

Talking of the change, which has been rumored for several weeks, both Mr. Speake and Mr. Roper expressed satisfaction with the agreement, declaring that they hope to conduct their business in such a way as to make expansion necessary within the next year.

Mr. Roper, a member of the Albany-Decatur Kiwanis club and prominent in fraternal circles, has been in business connection with the City National Bank for a number of years, handed his resignation to the directing board of that institution three weeks ago. His resignation was accepted at the last regular meeting of the board of directors, becoming effective on January 1.

Mr. Roper has been in the banking business here for the past 20 years, having seen service with the Tennessee Valley Bank, First National Bank and City National Bank. He has been treasurer for the First Methodist church for the past 10 years as well as serving on the board of stewards. As a member of the Decatur city council, he has rendered invaluable service over a period of eight years. Launching into the clothing business, friends believe that Mr. Roper has an excellent opportunity for a substantial success, already being recognized as one of the prominent business, church, and civic leaders in the lives of these cities.

Russell Speake, partner in the new firm of Speake and Roper, has spent his entire life in this section, becoming definitely established in Albany-Decatur in 1915 when he entered business at his present location.

Mr. Speake first entered a partnership with J. L. Echols, under the firm name of Echols and Speake. Then in August of 1918 the interests of Otto Moebes, of the firm of D. W. Speake and O. B. Moebes, were acquired by Russell Speake, J. L. Echols and D. W. Speake, and two establishments, one in Albany on Moulton street and the other on Bank street, Decatur, were maintained. H. R. Speake assumed active charge of the Decatur store while D. W. Speake managed the Albany location. This business alignment continued until January 1, 1923 when Russell Speake sold his Albany interest and in turn purchased the entire Decatur interest.

Hampered for a time with failing health Mr. Speake was unable to give his business the attention he desired and sold an interest to R. G. Sherril. The firm was continued until 1924 under the name of Speake and Sherril. Mr. Speake then purchased the interest of Mr. Sherril, along with an interest of G. D. Williamson and prepared to make his establishment exclusive for men's furnishings. The name of the establishment then became "H. R. Speake and has been continued successfully under that name.

Mr. Speake has been active in the Baptist church, is a director of the Tennessee Valley and Citizens Industrial banks, a Kiwanian, and ready at all times to serve in any civic capacity for which he is called. Friends today predicted success for the new firm when it begins business on the first of the year.

DOHENY INSISTS HE MADE 'FRIENDSHIP' LOAN TO A. B. FALL

Millionaire Testifies In Own Behalf In Conspiracy Trial

'ADVANCE' WAS MADE IN CASH

Co-defendant Avers Fall Very Dear Friend of His

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Edward L. Doheny testified in his own defense today in his trial for criminal conspiracy.

The 70-year old oil man went to the witness stand at his own request to explain to the jury the circumstances of his $100,000 "loan" to Albert B. Fall who is a defendant with him under the charge of conspiring to secure award to the Elk Hills oil lease while Fall was interior secretary.

The story of the $100,000, as Doheny told it to the Senate committee three years ago, already is in the trial records.

In a quiet, even voice, the 70-year-old millionaire told the jurors, as man to man, that he had no feeling of culpability and that when he advanced $100,000 to Albert B. Fall, he had no thought but to help an old and very dear personal friend out of personal financial troubles.

He disclaimed firmly that the money had connection with the award of the Elk Hills and Pearl Harbor contract to Doheny interests while Fall, now a co-defendant under the conspiracy charge, was secretary of the interior.

For the first time, he disclosed that in 1925, more than three years after the $100,000 "loan" was made, Fall gave him, as security, a block of ranch stock valued at twice the principal of the debt. Just before he took the stand, Doheny's wife and son, Edward L., Jr., had provided other details of the transaction.

Appearing as defense witnesses, they related how the advance was made in cash and how, afterward, the signature was torn from the $100,000 note given by Fall and put into Mrs. Doheny's hands for safekeeping.

Both note and signature were produced for examination by the jury. The prosecution did not cross examine either Mrs. Doheny or Edward, Jr.

Kiwanis Club Awards Contract To Littrell; Work Will Begin On Friday Morning On Highway.

Contract for the temporary repair of the Morgan county "missing link," on the Decatur-Courtland highway was let this afternoon to A. V. Littrell, with the provision that work begin Friday morning in the repair of the three mile stretch of highway connecting Morgan and Lawrence counties.

The contract was let by the Albany-Decatur Kiwanis club, following its sanction by the membership gathered today at the Y. M. C. A., in a regular weekly session.

A. A. Jones, president, asked that C. W. Mathews, member of the board of directors, present the plan in mind to the membership, the directors already having selected the plan. Mr. Mathews told of negotiations with the contractor in which the contractor agreed to scarpify and place the three-mile Morgan segment in passable condition for the sum of $600, provided the contractor be allowed to start work Friday morning.

The club voted unanimously favoring the proposal and President Jones appointed the following as a solicitation committee: D. D. Burleson, chairman; L. R. Nash, J. H. Mc-

DEVELOPMENT ON SCALE TO EFFECT NATION SEEN BY LIEUT.-COLONEL FISK

Rivers and Harbors Convention Hears Startling Forecast By High Ranking Army Engineer Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Private capital is ready to go ahead with development in the Tennessee Valley in and near Muscle Shoals on a scale that will be felt, not only locally, but throughout the entire nation, it was averred before the 22nd convention of the National River and Harbor Congress today, in a paper by Lieutenant Colonel Harold C. Fisk, engineer corps, U. S. A.

Application now pending before the federal power commission from interests willing to spend more than $100,000,000 in developing power, have more than justified the unprecedented $800,000 congressional appropriations for a survey of the economic possibilities of the Muscle Shoals project, according to Lieutenant Colonel Fisk.

The survey already has made it evident, it was stated, that the possibility of a nine-foot navigation of the river, combined with development of upward of 1,750,000 horsepower, will bring about a development in industry favorably reacting upon the entire nation.

In an address on "the business man and water transportation," John H. Small, of this city, former president of the congress, visualized a development of the interior waterways and coastways ship channels which, by 1950, will allow inbound lake ports to carry on commerce direct with foreign nations give a continuous water route by river and canals from the region of the Great Lakes entirely around the eastern coast to the Gulf of Mexico and eventually to the Rio Grande; and place ports on the Mississippi-St. Lawrence and Great Lakes in direct commercial competition with New York.

Other speakers before the session today included Thomas H. Ball, of Houston, Texas, counsel of the Houston port district.

The inspector pointed out that it is not sufficient that persons have the new tags, but that they must be displayed on their cars. He urged that automobile owners comply with all provisions of the code, the costs totalling $61 for failure to observe these regulations.

To oversee and direct the work, the chair appointed Marion S. Bingham, engineer, W. M. Bailey and F. S. Hunt acting with the engineer. Mr. Littrell, the contractor had previously asked that some one be placed to oversee the job.

It is probable that the action of the club will be followed by a like action in Lawrence county, with regard to the remaining two miles of the highway which remains in poor condition.

The solicitation committee assembled directly after the meeting to begin plans for raising the necessary funds, hoping to conclude the drive this afternoon.

The action of the Kiwanis club will be looked upon with favor by the cities at large, much interest having centered in the various plans for repairing the roadway. Various agencies have directed energies in getting the road repaired, but the Kiwanis club is the first to stand back of the plan and order the work to be done. The action of the membership marked another success in the line of endeavors of the club.

DELINQUENTS ARE FEWER THIS YEAR

Arrests Are Started To Enforce Auto License Rule

Delinquents on payment of automobile licenses this year are fewer than ordinarily is the case, according to H. R. Summer, Morgan county license inspector.

Mr. Summer announced, however, that arrests are beginning for violation of the regulations regarding the use of automobile tags. A total of 14 arrests were made yesterday on this charge, he stated.

The inspector pointed out that it is not sufficient that persons have the new tags, but that they must be displayed on their cars. He urged that automobile owners comply with all provisions of the code, the costs totalling $61 for failure to observe these regulations.

15,000 Pounds Of Turkey To Sell

MONTGOMERY, Dec. 9.—(AP) Most turkeys here have laid aside the mourning put on at the loss of brothers and sisters over the Thanksgiving season, but they are in for more trouble. Lem A. LEGISLATURE OF VARIED CLASSES

All Walks of Life
Represented As Solons Meet

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Right after Christmas there will gather in Montgomery a large group of men who will have temporarily abandoned their peaceful, homely pursuits to attend to public business. This group represents both 'Classes and masses' of the State of Alabama. In addition to the usual high proportion of lawyers, it includes many farmers, a number of business men and merchants and a few professional men, in fact a wider variety than is usually found.

This is the Legislature of the State of Alabama, assembling in special session to consider voting bonds to build more highways throughout the state and increasing the gasoline tax to help provide a sinking fund for the highway bonds.

Among those who hold seats in the senate are 20 lawyers, six business men, three physicians, two coal operators, two bankers, one publisher and a lone farmer.

In the lower house, however, the farmers come closer to holding their own in the face of the legal fraternity. With 44 lawyers are

Shortage Found In Mission Fund

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 9.—(AP)—A shortage estimated at $92,000 has been discovered in the books of the treasurer of the foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist convention and George N. Sanders, of Richmond, treasurer of the board, has confessed his responsibility for the shortage. Dr. Ray, assistant to Dr. J. F. Love, secretary of the foreign mission board, announced Tuesday.

seated 26 farmers. Eleven merchants, many of whom are also classified as farmers, four school teachers, three ministers, two manufacturers, two lumbermen, two insurance men, one editor, a jeweler, a cotton dealer, a railroad man, a printer, a physician and a drummer will also be there to represent their constituencies. Four more members of the lower house are listed without lay occupation.

The lone farmer senator is W. F. Hall, of Huleburg representing the 21,347 inhabitants of Henry county, the smallest representation in the senate. The school teachers in the lower house are: J. O. Webb, of Waverly, Chambers county; Leo R. Jones of Cleburne county; W. F. Monk, of Skipperville, Dale county; H. Lee Nisper, of Grant, Marshall county.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEETING OPENS

Leaders Explain The Purpose In View
To Students

By J. A. West

The first meeting of the Young People's Institute which convened here Monday for a five-days session, was held Monday evening at 6:00, and was preceded Sunday afternoon at 3:00 by a mass meeting which was addressed by Rev. H. H. Ellis, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Leaders of the institute were present, and made talks, explaining the object of the meeting, and gave helpful suggestions to those expecting to take the five days course.

The enrollment to date is now around 50, and is expected to grow during the week. The evening meetings consume two hours, lunch being served at the church.

Water will be turned into the water mains which are all laid and ready, during the next few days. The system is practically complete, and Hartselle citizens are glad that a reality has come to pass, a matter that has engaged the attention of the citizenship here for the past several years. It is said that the construction of this system of waterworks is of the very best material obtainable, and the work has been done under the guidance of an expert at the business.

An agreement among the four ginneries here has resulted that each of the gins will gin only one day each week, making four days in each week. Full days ginneries have been the rule since this agreement was reached, it being necessary to gin into the night on several occasions to catch up with the offerings of the day. It is said that there is yet considerable cotton to be picked in this section, and it is quite certain that all of it will never be gathered. Corn harvesting is finished, and is said to have been the best and biggest crop of corn gathered here in several years.

Many took the first cold weather developing Monday to kill their pork hogs. Weather conditions all through November have been ideal for the saving of meat, and much of it was salted down in that month. As usual in this section there has been some top notchers killed this season, going well over

Seeks Another Trial, Jury Is Not American

MONTGOMERY, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Because one member of the jury which convicted him was a resident of Birmingham, England and not a naturalized citizen of the United States, S. R. Batson, former member of the board of revenue of Jefferson county, will come before the supreme court during the week of December 13, to seek a third trial of the charges on which he was impeached and removed from office. Batson was held not guilty at the first trial but Judge W. L. Parks, of Troy, granted a motion for new trial presented by the state.

Batson appeared at the second trial without attorney, conducting his own defense. The jury found him guilty. Employing an attorney, he made a motion for new trial on the grounds of one juror's non-residence.

Judge Parks denied the motion and the appeal followed. John S. Harris, warden of Kilby prison, was appointed to his position.

Rev. J. D. Boozer, pastor of the First Baptist church, has a little child very ill with double pneumonia.

J. H. Smith and wife are both confined to their beds with rheumatism. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are both quite old, and have been sick for several weeks.

Dr. J. S. Robertson, presiding elder of the Decatur district, occupied the pulpit at the First Methodist church Sunday morning, delivering an eloquent sermon at that time, and administering the sacrament of the Lord's supper at its close. In the evening, the pastor Rev. H. H. Ellis preached.

Rev. J. D. Boozer, pastor of the First Baptist church occupied his pulpit at both service Sunday.

Rev. E. N. Anthony, pastor of the First Christian church, filled both of his regular services on Sunday.

The subject of an annex to the First Methodist church is taking form, and preliminary steps will be taken soon to build it. The increased numbers at Sunday school makes it imperative that more room be provided. It is very certain that the annex will be completed early in the coming New year.

HARBORS, RIVERS REQUIRE UPKEEP

Million And A Half
Necessary For the State Waterways

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 9.—

(AP)—Harbors, rivers and waterways of Alabama districts will require $1,905,750 for upkeep during the fiscal year 1927-28, according to the report of Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of engineers of the Army, in whose care river and harbor projects are placed. This sum, allotted to the Mobile, Montgomery and Florence, Ala., districts, is just a small item in the appropriation that will require for the United States as a whole.

Seacoast, harbors, waterways and rivers will require $65,477,365 during the year, the report said. General work will absorb $54,439,365, while $11,018,000 will be needed for flood control work, surveys and other specific purposes.

The heaviest item in the Alabama districts is Mobile harbor, which comes in the estimate for $437,600. Operation and maintenance of Muscle Shoals dam and hydro-electric development is next with $300,000.

Items included in the Mobile district are: harbor of Mobile, $37,500; chemical between Mobile Bay and Mississippi sound, $20,000; Black Warrior and Tombigee rivers, $17,000; Tombigee river, mouth to Demopolis, $19,500; Bayou Labatre, $5,000; Pascagoula harbor, $38,000; Gulfport harbor and Ship Island pass, $175,000; removing water in Mobile river and tributaries, $3,750.

The Montgomery district which includes mainly Florida points, calls for an appropriation of $280,000. In the Florence district an appropriation of $10,000 for then

The fact that the price of cotton advanced, following the government's report, didn't hurt the chances of Santa Claus any.

News of the serious illness in Atlanta of Judge Mayfield occasioned deep concern among his many friends in the Twin Cities, who trust that his condition will show an early improvement.

The state expects these cities to light half the bridge, certainly our city councils will not hesitate to take the cities' half of so important a responsibility.

There is still a chance that Second avenue is going to be repaired, don't give up hope—remember what a time Columbus had before he discovered America.

The Tri-Cities Daily reports that in Illinois a man, holding his pipe like a revolver, captured a burglar. Strong pipes are office acquaintances of the Daily, but the strength displayed by the one in Illinois just about wins the gold encrusted tobacco pouch.

There is too much discrepancy between the government's crop estimate and the actual ginning figures. More and more people are becoming convinced of this. The Twin Cities are in the middle of the cotton belt, but the difference between the total yield and the cotton ginned in this vicinity would not indicate that there remains more than 4,000,000 bales of cotton in the fields.

The death of Senator McKinley, of Illinois, removes from the senate one of the strongest friends Muscle Shoals had in the upper house. The Illinois representative, long ago, became convinced that Muscle Shoals development was necessary and he clung to that decision with the same tenacity with which he clung to life and fought off death for hours after his physicians had given up all hope for his recovery.

Down in Birmingham, public agencies have the same trouble with finances that other municipalities and counties encounter. The Age-Herald announces that J. M. Jones, Jr., city commission, will discuss the municipality's financial affairs with the real estate board at its regular meeting. To The Daily that appears as pretty good indication that Birmingham will solve many of her problems. The talking over of public problems by officials with business men of the community appears to be a fairly certain way of enlisting much help for the city fathers.

Cutting the cotton acreage as a matter of immediate necessity is a good thing, but permanent salvation of the South lies in the development of new uses for the South's major crop. Governor Walker, of Georgia, has taken a step in the right direction by telegraphing a protest to the federal government against the provision of the army regulations which provides that uniforms must be made of Egyptian cotton. Why not use Southern cotton for this purpose?

Edwin Denby, secretary of the navy under President Harding, received a good many kicks during his tenure of office, finally retiring under the avalanche of criticism. Wednesday Edwin Denby went before the District of Columbia court trying Fall and Doherty on a conspiracy charge, and assumed most of the responsibility for leasing of oil reserves to Doherty. In the days when "buck-passing" is a popular pastime for men in public life, the courage displayed by Mr. Denby is surprising. Whatever his faults may be, he certainly displayed every attribute of manliness in his testimony before the Washington court, and there is little wonder he could rise from the rank of private in the marine corps to secretary of the navy.

TENNESSEE RIVER BRIDGE WILL BE MEMORIAL TO ENGINEER KELLER.

The state highway commission has, officially, designated the highway bridge across the Tennessee river at this point as the Keller Memorial bridge. Henceforth the structure will be known by that name.

There were many who favored designation of the bridge as a memorial to the fallen soldiers of Morgan and Limestone counties, but, as the commission apportioned out, these are two memorial bridges already in this state.

The designation of the bridge as a memorial to the late highway engineer will receive universal commendation. No man probably had more to do with the inauguration of a state highway system in Alabama than did Mr. Keller. Even after his health began failing, his interest in Alabama's road future was so intense, that he remained in harness to the last. He has left behind him a bright record of achievement and an inspiring record of loyalty to the public interests. It is fitting that the present commission should thus honor the memory of their predecessor.

HEALTH CONDITIONS IN THE VALLEY ARE MUCH IMPROVED.

The report of the Tennessee Valley laboratory for the month of November, revealing the entire absence of malaria during the month, is a striking illustration of the progress being made in health work in this section.

Since the establishment of organized health work in North Alabama counties, constant efforts have been put forth to eliminate malaria from this section. Mosquito campaigns have been inaugurated and other preventive measures undertaken. The result now is being revealed in a healthier and happier citizenship.

Within a short time it is believed that the North Alabama tier of counties will be united in their health efforts. Organized units now are functioning in nearly every Tennessee valley county, and the date is not far distant when this statement will be made to include EVERY county.

The Tennessee Valley, in its great industrial expansion, is not unmindful that advancement in other fields is necessary. In health work, previous paragraphs of this article, have told of how this expansion is being made; many paragraphs could be devoted to the expansion of schools and many, many stores could be written of the building of new churches and the enlarging of old ones.

DO PEOPLE WANT ROADS? THIS INDEED IS A SERIOUS QUESTION.

The question raised by an unhampered "road authority" in a news article published in the Daily Wednesday as to the degree of co-operation given by the public in construction of roads is, indeed, a serious one.

There always has been a disposition, in matters of public business, to desire individual favors, but surely the co-operative spirit of the people of Morgan county can and will overcome this natural tendency in the matter of roads.

Of course everyone wants good roads. There has been a time, perhaps, when a large section of the citizenship was lukewarm, at least, on this subject. That was during a time when the roads were not so generally used. Now the farmer and the city inhabitant, alike, want and need good highways. Evidently, judging by the Daily contributor's observation, the co-operative spirit has not quite kept step with the increasing intensity of this desire.

The result is that whereas all want roads, some people still do not want them with sufficient ardor to be willing to make personal sacrifices to obtain them. Few benefits are obtained without a sacrifice on someone's part, somewhere up or down the line. This principle could, with reason, be applied to road building.

The authorities of Morgan county, the Daily feels sure, will make every effort to prevent any sacrifice being more than justified, but the Daily cannot help, at this time, speaking a word in behalf of the future road-building operations in this county. Let every citizen make up his mind to help, rather than hinder, in all questions of road policy.

If this determination should become general, no doubt, the road builders could get their program along in much more rapid progress. The idea is worth trying out.

CAPTAIN BROWN DESERVING OF PUBLIC RECEPTION ON HIS RETURN.

Word from Asheville, North Carolina, of the improvement in health of Captain Raymond R. Brown, is received with thankfulness by his many friends and admirers in the Twin Cities. If the rate of improvement continues, it is possible that he will be able to return home in about four months.

Would it not be a splendid thing for the American Legion to perfect plans for a public reception for him on his return? For many months now he has been fighting a grim fight alone to defeat the disease which he fell prey to while leading his companions in the war torn sections of France. The American people owe more than they can ever repay to those gallant souls like Captain Brown, who met and conquered what hitherto had been regarded as the finest military units in the world, the Prussian Guards. Would it not be fitting, indeed, to pay tribute to Captain Brown, and through him, to those other thousands who have found the end of the war was, in reality, only the beginning of their fight?

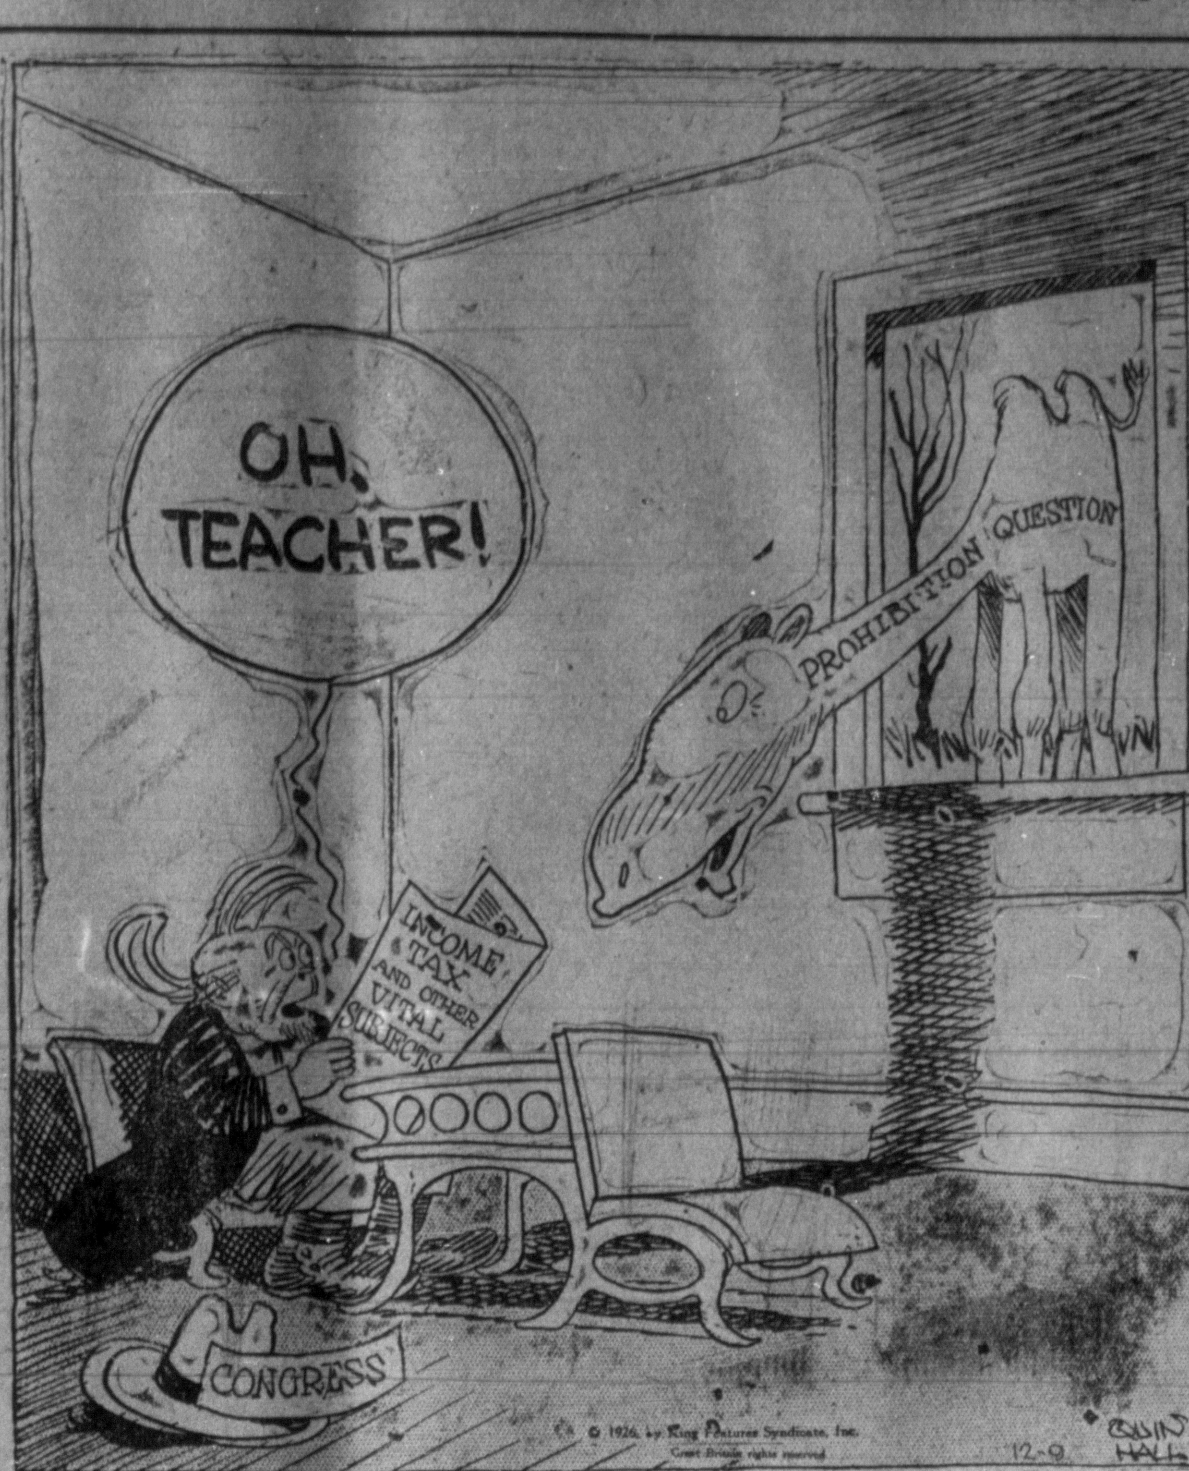

Many readers of the Daily will remember that soul-stirring day when, as the afternoon sun began its descent toward the western skyline, a troop train, laden with khaki clad heroes, steamed its way into the union station here and Company E was back home again. At the head of his company, during the memorable parade through the business sections of Albany and Decatur, Captain Brown strode, as he had led these battle-scarred Alabamians through every major engagement of the war.

Soldierly, erect, his face tanned by the thousand exposures to which he had been subjected, was Captain Brown. Following the mustering out of himself and his company, he returned to his peaceful pursuits here. Like many others who, on their return home in the fullness of apparent health, little dreaming of the grim after-math of disease which would wreck their health, Captain Brown resumed his business career. Soon his experiences in France began the collection of their terrible toll and, while others are enjoying the fruits of peace, he, most of all entitled to enjoy them, still is paying the price of war.

May the Daily suggest to the American Legion and to other civic organizations here that they now make plans to welcome Captain Brown home again?

It is to be hoped that Senator Black can be persuaded to come here to attend the celebration planned by Rising Sun Lodge. The people of the Twin Cities have, as yet, had an opportunity to extend their congratulations to Alabama's junior senator. Morgan county people voted for Black in considerable numbers in the democratic primary, for the Birmingham attorney already has hundreds of friends and admirers here.

SECRETARY DAVIS BELIEVES LABOR CONTROVERSIES HAVE NEARED END IN THE NATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—There is real hope for a reduction in the number of labor controversies in American industry because the habit of conciliating and mediating disputes is growing stronger. Secretary Davis of the labor department, said today in his annual report.

So long as enterprising men and women engaged in industry bend their energies toward advancement there will be differences of opinion, he said, but with the principles of conciliation being more generally accepted year by year the nation is bound to see a great reduction in the number of disputes reaching a stage where a stoppage of production occurs.

Administration of the immigration laws, vested in the Labor Department, during the past year was "the most satisfactory since the adoption by Congress in 1921 of a limitation policy," Mr. Davis declared. Due in part to the stationing of United States medical and immigration inspectors abroad, the number of immigrants excluded after a long journey to this country was reduced to a minimum.

"Thus there has been realized the second step toward the ideal of selected immigration," the secretary said. "The act of 1924 which gives to United States consular officers abroad a certain amount of discretion in the granting of visas where doubt arises as to the admissibility of an intending immigrant was the first. The stationing of our immigration and health officers abroad in the countries furnishing 90 per cent of the immigration is the second. It is my opinion that a third and final step in a complete process of selecting immigration can be accomplished if Congress will but approve some method of priority in the granting of what are now referred to as 'non preference' quota visas. Of quota immigrants, on the ground of humanity, I would provide for preferences to be issued to husbands, wives, and minor children of alien residents in the United States."

"Wives and unmarried children under 18 years of a citizen of the United States are non quota immigrants under the act of 1924, which is as it should be, but the class should be extended to include the husband of an American citizen and a provision should be added permitting the entrance, if the quota be exhausted, of minor unmarried children and dependent fathers and mothers of citizens of the United States."

The secretary repeated recommendations first made in 1925, that Congress allow the importation of special or skilled labor, under careful restriction, when need exists in American industry. This expansion of the total immigration possible, he suggested, should be balanced off by empowering the president to shut off immigration entirely during periods of industrial depression in the United States.

PAINS THAT WANDER OVER THE BODY

Poisons Distributed Through the System Because Waste Material Is Not Properly Eliminated—Watch Your Habits.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

ALMOST everybody suffers occasionally from neuralgia or neuritis. There may be a pain in the hip, or in the shoulder, or in the side, or somewhere else in the body.

It is difficult to know just why these pains come. Experience has shown that constipation is frequently associated with wandering pains such as I have described.

There is a great pity that so many persons permit themselves to go along without proper action of the intestines. No one would think of permitting a basement to remain in an unsanitary condition. Many persons who are perfect cranks on sanitation will permit the body to be poisoned and upset as the result of an overcrowded colon, packed with unevacuated waste material.

Where this condition exists, there is sure to be absorption of poisonous substances which may be productive of pain in the nerves or muscles. Some sort of ache may be one of the symptoms.

More and more we are coming to appreciate that pus absorption is a cause for ill health. Lots of times there is neuritis or neuralgia with no apparent cause for its existence. You should never overlook the possibility in such a case that pus absorption from some focus of infection is responsible for the symptoms.

On this account it is wise to have the teeth and gums examined, tonsils inspected and every other organ of the body thought of as the possible seat of pus infection. When the focus of infection is removed, then we may hope for the disappearance of the pains.

If such a pain as I have described persists for a long time, you should talk with your doctor about it. Before doing so, study your own case—think over the way you use your muscles, uncomfortable positions you are required to use in your calling, and any other possible cause for such a pain as you have. The doctor is sure to ask you about these and you will be a help to him if you will consider them beforehand.

When once this seat of infection is discovered, or the exciting cause is located, its removal will drive the pain away and make you happy again.

But at his exhibition on Broadway in New York, presently, he will show new things in a Ford car, interesting to the millions that already have one.

His flying machine plant has been doubled in size. Whoever wants to be able to fly safely in a Ford airplane with three separate, powerful engines, everything made of metal.

THE DETROIT TIMES tells you that Dodge Brothers in the week ending Nov. 27, broke all records in car and truck production.

E. T. Strong, president of the Buick Motor company, wandered down to the "line" to see Buick number 1,750,000 roll off that line. Henry Ford is an even more thoroughly seasoned automobile father, having long since been photographed in his Ford car number ten million.

The automobile business is certainly a business.

MR. LINDER, publisher of the Detroit Times, has information interesting to other publishers, whose minds, like his, attach importance to filthy lucre. Three makes of automobiles are expected to do twenty million dollars worth of advertising in 1927.

WILLIAM A. HEDERMEIER, a rural mail carrier of South Rockwood, Michigan, is dying. Two prohibition agents, who shot him, express regret. They mistook him for a rum runner, as he was returning in his little boat from shooting ducks.

IT is regrettable, for rum runners and hi-jackers can be relied upon to kill enough citizens. Those hired to enforce law and order should be quite certain that they are shooting the right parties, in our little alcohol civil war.

SPECIAL care should be taken when enforcement officers stop citizens in automobiles on coun-(ry roads. How is the driver to know that it isn't a highwayman, ordering him to stop, and what are his rights as regards a shooting?

ONTARIO, just across the river from booming Detroit, has gone wet, and promises "to sell rum at fair prices."

Last Wednesday Ontario citizens voted to throw bootleggers and blind tigers into the ash can and keep the profit, for their government. Whisky, etc., neatly wrapped, in paper that has silk threads and imitates bank note paper, will be sold to Canadian by the government at a profit of one hundred per cent.

WHEN such bottles are sold on the American side of the water, the salesman adds three dollars to the government price stamped on each bottle. It is the easiest known way to earn $100 a day.

THE Canadian government will make its annual profit of millions. Canadians delivering the whisky to Americans will make their annual profit of millions. These facts influenced the voters.

AN ARMY of men will be employed by the United States to keep the whisky out, and will not keep it out. But some of them will get some of the money and some of the whisky.

Prohibition, an effort to keep men from doing what they want to do, with a law that they refuse to respect, represents a problem.

WHERE does your income tax dollar go? Senator Capper, of Kansas, gives part of the answer:

"On public payrolls in 1925 there were 1,785,000 names. No there are 2,600,000 names."

ONE in ten of all that earn their living in the United States are on some public payroll. It costs the average family in tax $125 a year to pay the salaries.

CONSIDER special commissions created in Washington. There are scores. Congress asked to create 15 more; one to investigate the Mountain Meadows massacre that happened about 175 years ago.

Twenty years ago there were 14 special government agencies in Washington, now there are about 100. The cost has gone up from $1,000,000 a year ago to $750,000,000. There is still room for economy.

LITTLE and big things cost money.

The State of Michigan last year paid to the federal government more than $89,000,000 in automobile taxes, which seem a good deal. But North Carolina paid the national government more than $49,000,000 in tax on cigarettes.

Sale of cigars is falling off and that of cigarettes increasing by hundreds of millions. The war did that, and smoking women helps.

The Views of Others

QUESTIONS ON RELIGION

Daily newspapers will be asked to print a series of questions in an effort to ascertain the religious views of the people of the United States. The questionnaire is not doctrinal and is not intended as an effort to change the belief of any one. The leaders in the movement expect to secure the basis of a series of religious advertisements to be run between Christmas and Easter.

To the people themselves, the questionnaire will serve as a basis of reaching a conclusion as to the individual's conception of religion and a check-up on faith and belief. Read the questions and see how you would answer them. The time it takes to do it will be well spent.

These are the twelve questions which the public will be asked to answer:

- 1.—Do you believe in God?
- 2.—Do you believe in immortality?
- 3.—Do you believe in prayer as a means personal relationship with God?
- 4.—Do you believe that Jesus was divine as no other man was divine?
- 5.—Do you regard the Bible as inspired in a sense that no other literature could be said to be inspired?
- 6.—Do you regularly attend any religious services?
- 7.—Would you be willing to have your family grow up in a community in which there is no church?
- 8.—Do you regularly have a "family worship" in your home?
- 9.—Were you brought up in a religious home?
- 10.—Do you send your children to any school of religious instruction?
- 11.—Do you think that religion in some form is a necessary element of life for the individual or for the community?
- 12.—Do you think that religious belief is a necessary condition for the attainment of a high standard of living?

MUSIC STUDY CLUB CENTENARY CELEBRATION OF BETHOVEN

The reception suite of the Eighth avenue residence of Mrs. George Jackson Wednesday afternoon was a fit setting for the celebration of the centenary anniversary of the famous composer Bethoven.

The president, Mrs. H. O. Troup, opened the meeting in her usual happy style. She called for the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, by the secretary, Mrs. L. A. Hobart. These were followed by roll call, the response was in current events in the world of music. A business meeting disposed of important club affairs, Miss Esslinger, the Metropolitan contralto will be presented again by the club sometime in January. A pretty compliment was paid Mrs. W. R. Shelton, by the club, making her life honorary president. Then followed the program, as announced by Miss Wallace.

Biography of Bethoven—Mrs. L. A. Hobart.

Sonata—Op. 26—Miss Wallace.
Duet—Minuet—Mrs. Perkins.
Mrs. Joe Pettie.
Farewell to the piano—Mrs.

George Jackson.

The program leader was Mrs. Herbert Hughes.

The club enjoyed a social hour with the hostess who was assisted by club members in serving delightful refreshments.

MRS. WOLFE CLUB HOSTESS.

The home of Mrs. E. R. Wolfe was thrown open on Wednesday afternoon to the membership of the Cotaco Literary Club. Seasonable decorations added to the attractiveness of the interior.

Roll call was responded to with current events and this was followed by a business session. The program for the afternoon was entitled "Alabama Day" to celebrate the 107th birthday of the state. Mrs. Joe Pettie sang "Alabama" in sweet voice and she was accompanied by Mrs. Herman Whaley. Mrs. C. K. Lide brought to the club messages from the district convention of the A. F. W. C. held recently at Tusculum, giving a complete report of the meeting. A splendid paper on "Alabama" was read by Mrs. E. C. Price, after which a pleasing musical number was contributed by Mrs. Herman Whaley when she played "Hungarian Rhapsody." "On The Road to Mandalay" and "L'Envoi" by Kipling were read in a most delightful manner by Miss Wood and she responded to encore with "Jane" by Booth Tarkington. Mrs. Bussey gave a paper on "Christmas" which proved very interesting as well as appropriate at this time.

During the social hour the hostess served a delicious chicken salad course followed by a desert course consisting of ambrosia and cake.

Enjoying this meeting with the members were Mrs. Whaley, of Birmingham, Mrs. Herman Whaley.

MODERN WOMEN FOLLOW LEAD of GRAND-MOTHERS

A glimpse of the fashions of the modern "flapper" of today and the up-to-the-minute girl of 50 years ago, would naturally lead one to expect the woman of then and now to have little in common. But, just as the women of that age used St. Joseph's G. F. P. for that purpose for which it is intended, so do the women and girls of today.

The makers of St. Joseph's G. F. P. combined in their preparation these ingredients which were recognized at that time as the most effective in producing the results which they intended for their compound to produce, and during more than half a century it has stood the tests of everyday use in building up and strengthening women.

Mrs. Nora Peters of 216 Grant St., San Antonio, Texas, says: "I was terribly weak and run-down and I didn't see how I was going to get my strength back."

"Then I started using St. Joseph's G. F. P., and am now on my fourth bottle. I have a dandy appetite; sleep like a child and am gaining in strength every day."

St. Joseph's G.F.P.
Used by women for over 50 years of this club until after Christmas.

BRIDGE LUNCHEON CLUB.

The regular weekly meeting of the Bridge Luncheon Club was enjoyed on Wednesday with Mrs. John Pender as their gracious hostess at her home on Canal street and enjoying her hospitality with the club members were Mrs. W. E. Crawford and Mrs. Matthews.

Mrs. Joe Russell received the club prize, having made top score at the bridge games that were played after the serving of the tempting hot luncheon.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Miss Erika was prettily surprised on Friday evening at her home when about forty of her friends met at her home and gave her a party.

Dancing and games were the features of the evening.

The demonstration meeting constitutes one of the best agencies for promoting the county program. The State Department, County Board, and County Superintendent, gave their full support to these meetings. It is the plan to have every teacher in the county in one of these meetings during the year. In many cases these are the only teachers' meetings some attend excepting the Teachers' Institute.

These meetings serve as a clearing house for individual problems as well as general problem. One beginning teacher in discussing the meeting said: "I had a number of problems concerning my own work to discuss, but they have all been settled today." This is doubtless the sentiment of every teacher who attended this meeting.

The next meeting will be held at Danville, Friday, December 10.

Supervisor Rural Schools.

SYNOPSIS
Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, are temperamental mates. Ranny wants a divorce. Ranny confides to his friend, Clay, that he loves her but secretly knows that she loves another man. Ranny's plan is to trap her and Abner while they are all on a week-end trip on the yacht of Stivner, a millionaire lumber king. The complications now are fast and furious. Joan is jealous when Ranny flirts with Clara, a widow. Stivner loves Clara, and resents Ranny's interest. Joan encourages Abner's advances.

The conversation meanwhile had tended toward informality as it became more general.

Thus aided by the at least seeming disconcertion of interest from them, Abner was making bold to talk to Joan with less restraint. Still in subdued tones, of course, inaudible except to eavesdroppers. And since eavesdropping is an art that cannot best be practiced in public, even by the scandal attuned ears of the elite, the lovers felt rather immune.

Joan, a slight flush on her satiny cheeks that was not alone of the fresh wind's making, was listening with downcast eyes to Abner's unflagging talk. The ardor in Abner's eyes, the honeyed drip of his words, were as plain and as potent to Ranny as red flannel shirts to pasture bulls.

To this flaunting of illicit bliss, Ranny's poignant reaction followed the normal way of all male flesh, divided itself into two spasms.

The first, a madness to bury his fingers in Abner's throat and presently float over a subsiding circle on the water, marking the spot where Abner's body went down. The only sign of that spasm was a whit from the summer moon. We will be invigorating. Just what we all need."

"But none of us brought bathing suits, Livingston," curtly objected Clara.

Clara took command of the situation in her languid, yet strangely dominating way.

"Livingstone, you old dear, that's a ducky suggestion—no pun intended! As for suits—pouf! Away out here, who's to censor?" Clara paused and raised her brows in an arch, daring smile.

"You immoral little rascal," giggled a matron, "I never heard anything so wild. You wouldn't dare think of suggesting it except that you know you've got the best figure in our set!"

Clara smiled faintly, gratified as the mock horror she had stirred up amongst the women, the genuine shock she had caused the men. She gratified most by the black look she felt Joan casting upon her.

"Ah, life was sweet! And she had not really said a thing!"

Stivner stressed that.

"Clara means, of course," he grinned, "that style gives way to utility upon the briny deep. I've an ample supply of the very latest one-piece swimming suits—mostly cut! If you'll all go to your rooms I'll have the steward pass out the suits—and no questions asked. It will be a bully lark. Let's go! The last one in in an old sea coat!" She chuckled exuberantly, thus demonstrating that the richer and rasher some men get the closer they return to the skin to first popular principles.

"Livingstone, be yourself!" cried Clara, moving off so languidly that her trailing seemed to arise naturally from a foreboding that she would win the nomination which Stivner had playfully threatened the slothful.

A gift for giving misleading impressions, however, was but another of the qualities of Clara's art. As master of fact, she was the first to reappear upon deck, though her manner was so low and languid than before and gave no suggestion—by quickened breath or color, or otherwise—that she had hastened her actions so fast.

"Guess she didn't have much to take off," giggled Mrs. Telfen.

"Certainly she had very little on!" rejoined Joan. "How is it but suit is so much more extreme than those of the rest of us? I thought Mr. Stivner had provided a stand ard lot!"

Livingstone Stivner himself was wearing just as he came, coming on deck with Ranny and Clay. His astonished eyes fell upon what was at that moment the common object of the stares of guests and crew alike.

"Clara," ejaculated Stivner, glaring at where a ragged remnant of swimming suit leg, like a scalloped necklace, demurely clung to the zenith of a creamy thigh, "you say who ripped your dress?"

"Oh, Livingston, it isn't ripped. You know how I just hate to look like everyone else. So I merely took some scissors and did a little trimming. The legs were too long anyhow—and the neck too high!"

"Scandalous!" thought Dowager Telfen audibly.

A general laugh followed. The men admired, the women envied, Clara's daring.

She turned a bashfully reproachful and hurt look upon Mrs. Telfen, then appealed to Ranny from under the golden curtains of her lashed eyelids.

"Ranny, you think it's perfectly nice and proper, don't you?"

Ranny's head had been swimming with the eye-dilling picture Clara made standing there on the forward deck, her slender, yet rounded and firmly fashioned limbs—like some fine old turnings of the masters' art—looking pathetically inadequate to withstand the searching breeze.

All the other women—and men, too—were heavy aweders draped carelessly over their shoulders. Not so Clara. Her only protection against the autumnal nippling of the South wind was the curled red jersey swimming suit.

Ranny, more than anything else in the world at that moment, felt a yearning impulse in his fundamental masculine protectivity—a crying, aching urge to clasp that soft little body up in his bronzed, hairy arms, to shield those tiny, delicate bare feet from contact with the gross boards of the deck.

However, catching Joan's eyes upon him, as she deliberately awaited his answer to Clara's plaintive inquiry, Ranny decided with great self-sacrifice that it might not be wise to publicly honor his manly impulses.

But he wet his lips, gritted his teeth and summoned enough independence to assert emphatically: "I think it's just ador-abbly—er—very sensible, Mrs. Clemeneau. You know, one's limbs should be—ah, unimpeded for the best reason in athletic diversion."

"Dear man!" hissed Clara, twisting up to Ranny with slinky, tigerishly graceful undulations of her hips.

"Nonsense! The water temperature in October hasn't changed a their first game and within a few years Athens probably will take her proper place in the ranks of North Alabama football teams.

Fan Takes The Initiative, Picks An All-Albany-Decatur Eleven

Haden thought of it in that light until a fan, giving his name as E. M. Willis, happened along with an All-Albany-Decatur eleven, but now that the subject has been broached gages there's no harm in naming such a combination.

This fan without hesitancy divides honors this way:

Price, tackle, Decatur (c).
Hurst, guard, Decatur.
Morrow, center, Decatur.
Conley, guard, Decatur.
Thompson, tackle, Albany.
Giles, end, Decatur.
Bishop, half, Albany.
King, half, Decatur.
West, full, Decatur.
Papenburg, quarter, Albany.

For his substitutes, this fan picks Owens, Albany; Wiggins, Al-line and Thombs, Garnett and Pride, all of Albany, in the backfield.

the teams have been denied the
